The Association of American Medical Colleges suggests the following areas as important to admissions committees. Please consider this candidate in comparison with other medical school applicants you have known.

Personal Attributes:

Please emphasize assets and liabilities, particularly those qualities which would indicate special promise or potential problems for medical education or practice. Your description of the candidate's actions in particular situations will help to clarify your appraisal.

Academic Achievement:

Since transcripts are available, comments should amplify the information on the candidate's academic record including the following:

- Academic achievement relative to other pre-medical students; e.g., class standing.
- Consistency of performance.
- Extenuating circumstances which might account for a typical grade(s) or course load(s).
- Degree of rigor of class(s) – introductory vs. upper level, honor section(s), etc.

Employment, extra-curricular or vocational activities:

Since this information is given on the application, mention only if you can elaborate meaningfully on them. Any activities which indicate motivation for medicine or concern for others are of special interest. If involvement was extensive, what was the effect on academic achievement?

Honors received, academic or non-academic:

Specify the competition or degree of selectivity of such awards, e.g., how many were awarded in what student population.
