The opportunity to travel is a privilege that carries with it a great deal of personal responsibility. As a representative of Hamline University, all participants are expected to conduct themselves in the most positive way possible at all times. Each participant must adhere to all federal/state/local laws, and university policies, rules, and regulations. Hamline University reserves the right to issue sanctions, including but not limited to, denying or revoking participation in future university-related travel for individuals found in violation of university policies. In addition, violation of university policies may require referral to the appropriate Dean of Students Office for judicial review.
